The Department of Art History is now accepting submissions for the

Grafton D. Trout Scholarship

One Art History major or minor will be awarded up to $1,500 toward travel expenses to participate in a Summer or Fall 2022 study abroad program.

Grafton D. Trout, a friend of the Department of Art History, was known for his insatiable love for languages and cultures. His vast knowledge of art, film, world history, literature, politics, and other topics rivaled only his drive to know and understand more. He cherished opportunities to engage with people, making friends everywhere he went. During his retirement Grafton remained highly engaged with the university, attending lectures, receptions, films, and performances several times each week. Those who knew him marveled at his zest for life and looked forward to welcoming his kindness, ideas, and wisdom.

To apply, email arthist@indiana.edu with the subject line “Grafton D. Trout Scholarship” by Friday, March 11th and include the following information:

* Your overall GPA
* A personal statement (750 words maximum) describing your interest in art history, the study abroad program you will be attending, and how that program will enrich your research interests
* The name and contact information of one faculty member willing to endorse your application

A committee of faculty members will select and announce the winner by April 1st. The scholarship will be disbursed to the winning student’s bursar account following the department’s receipt of the student’s admittance to an overseas study program.
